

deborah mccarthy studios

Brit Stone by Coem...takes inspiration from Burlington Stone

Exclusively through Centura Tile

The new Brit Stone series from Coem takes its inspiration from Burlington stone, an English stone especially well known in its blue/green shade. This stone, of sedimentary origin, is particularly popular with architects, designers and project designers for its lasting beauty and functional qualities. Coem has faithfully recreated the veins and pattern variation found in the natural stone material, bringing to market a porcelain stoneware with a richly varied appearance and a vibrant, natural beauty that maintains a uniform background shade. Large sizes bring out the best in this product.

- multiple formats including very large tile dimensions; rectified formats
- a variety of surfaces - Naturale - Matt, unpolished, Lucidato - half polished, Strutturato - textured
- digital HD technology - up to 100 different graphics
- perfect for interior floor and wall applications including commercial heavy traffic

- outdoor areas - Strutturato finish
- exterior cladding possibilities

Contact Deborah to schedule a presentation and find out more information.

*Copyright © 2018 Deborah McCarthy Studios, All rights reserved.
Architectural Consultant to Centura Tile, Peterborough and Kingston Territory*

Our mailing address is:

info@deborahmccarthystudios.com

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list